

LIGHTWORKS

«Writing with light» : this is the original meaning of the word «photography» – and this has been my way in the last 38 years.

On every continent I capture light. My pictures often result from sheer luck, gifts from nature, unexpected encounters between a graphical place served by light and my watchful eye.

I am not trying to deliver a concept, but merely to offer timeless images into which onlookers can venture. I suppose it is an attempt to ward off the ugly and dark aspects of the world.

My pictures contain very few elements. Nothing that jumbles the senses. Everything lies in the mystery of light.

I like to arouse in people the pleasure to immerse themselves in a sea of shades, contrasts and colors.

Nothing more.
